

MINYAN WORKSHOP

Kedem's Chayim and Ritual Matters (CHARM) Committee is considering whether to change the requirement of 10 Jewish people for a minyan at a service.

A study session about this was held with student rabbi Dahlia Shaham last year, and we would like to continue the process of learning and consulting with our Kehillah. Kedem members are invited to be involved in a second learning session about this topic, with a view to formulating a recommendation to go to the Kedem Board.

We are going to set a date for a workshop and would like people interested in participating to register their interest, so we can pick a date and time that suits as many people as possible.

If you are unable to attend the workshop, we will be happy to send you the resources we will be considering, and you are welcome to send your opinions in writing.

Please contact me by May 31st to register your interest in attending the workshop.
